

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

“THE NATIVES ARE RESTLESS”

Deneen Frazier

Using recent research, Deneen Frazier Bowen portrays a riveting cast of characters to reveal the students' struggle to connect what they do in school with what they do in the world. Using current research, Deneen—originator of the National Educational Computing Conference's Student Technology Leader Awards and co-author of The Internet for Your Kids—invites you to witness and connect to both the hope and discontent felt by these restless natives. Discover how to engage and leverage the digital mindset and creative energy of your own students to support the co-creation of a new future for your school.

What's everyone talking about?

“Deneen Frazer is an amazing thespian who integrates technological concepts into her fast paced presentation.”
Ruth Ann Gallagher

“Deneen Frazer encourages us to bring more imagination to our teaching and experience the world from a student's point. She will electrify and challenge teachers to find new ways to engage students.”
Mike Wiseman

“Deneen has a very unique way of entertaining you as well as taking you on a journey into the minds of our digital students. She portrays a cast of characters to illustrate how the students struggle to connect school with their real world. She is an exceptional key note speaker.”
Pam Bass

“I saw her in March. Her session was right after lunch. We were all full and sleepy, but when she started her set, everyone was so engaged, involved and excited! I can't wait to see what she brings this time!”
Carrie Meador-Bliss

“Deneen is an actor as well as an educator and speaker and she combines those talents to give a truly engaging presentation. Her message about the "digital natives" is one that is thought provoking and should be important to everyone in education or that has teenage children.”
Doug Kutzli

HIGH HOPES AND HARSH REALITIES AT AMERICA'S COMMUNITY COLLEGES

Community colleges are the fastest growing segment of American higher education – and some say the most vital to America’s future – offering a staggering array of classes and job training programs. But growing enrollment is straining the system, under funding persists, and in spite of some remarkable success stories, they fail to graduate even half of those who come. In this new documentary from Learning Matters, veteran correspondent John Merrow explores the paradoxes of these vital institutions. Go to www.pbs.org to read more about “Discounted Dreams”.
